

when he got no place to go. And, they told him, you ought to... Why don't you give me that money, I'll put it away for you. If you have it yourself, you're just going to throw it away. Little while, you'll be broke. He said, I'll take care of it. Bought clothes for the children...my granddaughter got two, school age, so he bought clothes for them. That was alright. Then he came to Anadarko and he stayed there till he went broke. And it wasn't long. I bet it was about two, three weeks. But he had, I don't know how much.

(Discussion about the dance at Bill Campbell's and plans to attend it.)

I usually bring my dinner. I always cook something, and when I get through they pick us up. Now this Sunday, I thought...oh my goodness, we waited, and we didn't have our dinner until about 1 o'clock.
