

(Are still quite a few people that get income from their land leases-- Indians?)

I don't know. Maybe there is. Maybe there is a few that lease their lands.
Not hardly anybody's got land anymore.

DEER KILLED RECENTLY AND HOW UTILIZED AND COOKED

(Interruption. Conversation resumes about deer recently killed by Alonzo Sankey.)

(Was it a very big deer?)

It was a big one. It--it was big. The hind quarters were about that big.
Big one.

(Where did he get it?)

He killed it over here somewhere--by the lake (Canton Reservoir). He said it was over there by Little Thunder's. You know there's a road that goes down to the lake and I guess there's plum bushes. I guess he told his brother, "Look--look at them horns! That's the one I'm going to get," I guess he said. So this Floyd, I guess he drove that truck away--the pickup-- and I guess he lay down--Alonzo laid down, he said. "I was laying there, watching, and just looking around," he said. Pretty soon it come out of that plum thicket. Just one shot and he killed it. He said, "I aimed at it. I run over there and cut his throat." And I guess Floyd come and they got it right now. You know they always have to cut something off over here (indicating her lower legs).

(On the legs? Oh--the inside of the legs?)

Anywhere--you know, they always be like warts. I guess he cut them off.
They say if you don't cut them off they don't taste good. It goes all over.

(Myrtle, is that anything like what a horse has on the inside of its forelegs, that's sort of horny--?)
