

'Cause sometimes, people might not have it.

(Yeah.)

That's my idea, you know.

(Yeah.)

Maybe, when they get it, well, they'll give it to you.

(Mmmm-hmmm.)

It's happened several times that way, you know.

(Yeah.)

Even there was a--I think it was last summer, there was some Indian--I don't know, Indian boy. It's kind of--might be in South Dakota or North Dakota somewhere. He's a Pawnee boy. He sept some money to give to the Wichitas. I think it was fifty or sixty dollars. That's what that boy gave to the Wichitas.

(Yeah.)

Things like that, you know, different--different ones. It's--well, to me, it's all right, you know. I joke with them Pawnees, you know. I tell them, "Well, that's all right. I'm going to steal this lawn." As long as I'm using something, I'm all right. (laughter)

(Yeah.)

One time, we was there, (name not clear), well, I just stay there.

(Mmmm-hmmm.)

One of my friends, you know, come here, "I want you all to come to the house." Well, we told them, you know, always camp. We just got to stay there. What I mean, you know--well, stories dangerous. It's dangerous all right.

(Yeah.)

But in that thing, you know, we got to try, you know. We done ask God,
