

Yeah. And this woman, that's Judson Hudson's grandmother.
That's his wife.

(What was her name?)

Let's see--what was her Indian name? (Pause) Oh, it was nisei.ci.t that means "Woman-Going-In." My goodness--Left
following p. 110)

(Did you know him well?)

Yeah, I knew him. He was an old man. He used to dare us--oh, gosh.

(Where did Left Hand live?)

He lived at Geary. (Looking at another picture) Oh, gosh, Yellow Hair.

(Did you know Yellow Hair?)

Yeah. That's Gus Yellow Hair's father. Look--he just look--a mouth like him. My goodness.

(Did Left Hand live anywhere near Medicine Bird?)

Let's see--right straight east of Geary, that's where he used to live. You know where that Calvin Sankey's house is? Right across that way. Across the river from there on the hill. That's where he used to live. And there's a spring down there. That's where he used to get water. Left Hand.

(And Medicine Bird lived south in the canyons?)

Yeah, way south of Geary.

(Were they about the same age?)

About the same age, I think. I think Left Hand was younger. My,
my. (Interruption) This picture where they're all leaning-- they're fixing the inside of the Sun Dance. And this-- wá'táenóò -- (probably referring to picture of Black Coyote)

Let's see, his name is Black Crow in Indian.

(How do you say "Black Crow"?)

Hand.

(How would you say Black Coyote?)

wá'táegw'w -- That's what Watonga should be -- wá'táegw'w -- but they just say Watonga.

(Who is this?)
