

my grandsons to become member of their lodge, Ogamah.

(Ogamah, yeah, yeah.)

See, George Botone, I guess, he's back of that.

(Yeah.)

I don't know, but there's another boy told me down at that Apache Dance, you know, that. He was talking to Ethel. Says, they want me over there Sunday, this coming Sunday. Now, I don't know. Wichita, our ways, you know, when we have something at our home, we're supposed to go there.

(Yeah.)

We can, you know, we have tell people, excuse us, we can't, you know, we haven't nursery, you know, They know it. They know it, you know. And so, Sunday, you know, we're going to have one down Willis, you know.

(Yeah.)

For his boy.

(Yeah. Is that going to be at -- is that going to be at noon, and then run all afternoon?)

Yeah, they're going to have dinner at noon. We have -- we had pretty good size crowd yesterday, But I guess some of them people went to that pow-wow they had down Walters.

(Yeah.)

Well, maybe, you went?

(No, I didn't.)

Well, but they say it would be pretty hot over there. It's about like here.

(Yeah, yeah. Well, the Apaches -- Apaches dance -- the Apaches have theirs in two weeks.)

Yeah.

(On the second, third and fourth -- .)
