

It means, see, you know, any kind of seed, you know.

(Yeah.)

But the Pawnees, see, they got the same word, and I told him, close I ever get that means seed.

(Yeah.)

See, there's few places we, you know, we could almost understand, you know. Now, where he says -- lots of times, they used that word. They say (Pawnee Indian word). Well, Wichita, you know, we call, it sounds same thing, you know. (Wichita Indian word), see, we call it (Wichita Indian word). (Wichita Indian word), that's a sun.

(Wichita Indian word.)

(Will you say it once more?)

Sun?

(Yeah, in Wichita.)

(Wichita Indian word.)

(And how do the Pawnees say it?)

Well, they say that. They say -- I mean, they use that word, you know, that (Pawnee Indian word). That's Pawnee, you know. They use that word, you know.

Well, it's the same thing. It's sun, you know.

(Yeah.)

But they say it little different (Pawnee Indian word) Oh, Wichita, you know we got lot of words, you know.

(Yeah.)

That means, you know, same thing. They say (Pawnee Indian word), and what they mean, I guess, the time, they say (Pawnee Indian word). (Laughter)
Got lot of words. (Indian word.)

(Pawnee Indian word.)

They even, they call it (Pawnee Indian word). You know, just the sun.
