

(Yeah.)

They don't, you know, they, these people over here, Apaches, I think, they bet money. We never hardly do that.

(Yeah.)

We don't do that way, but some, you know, they want to, but they don't bet anymore. So (Pause) they were, they could, well, generally in fall, you know. That's when they have them games, you know.

(Yeah.)

Now, you know, we had one last night.

(Yeah, I know.)

Down here at Gracemount, few people there. So, it was kind of, you know -- them long game's hard. (Laughter.)

(Yeah.)

Pretty hard, can't finish a game right away.

(When -- when does one game end? Does everybody have to have -- does one side have to ten sticks before the game ends?)

Yeah, they -- see, they got the ten sticks. All right, maybe people that's hiding over there, maybe, they make two. Well, they get it from their own to get two. That's on this side, you know. Well, maybe, the next time, maybe, they make two more. That's four. That's when they hid, you know.

(Yes.)

Well, maybe, sometime, they go two at a time, you know. Well, they finish their five. They get one out of here, you know, just like that.

(Yes.)

When ever you get all ten sticks back, you know, they win.

(I see.)

I think my mother used to have eight, but she didn't have -- well, she had
