

Well, they score two.

(They get two sticks?)

Yeah. And then, sometimes, you know, maybe, they find one. Well, they pick up one -- .

(Yeah.)

-- one, you know, one stick.

(If the -- if they guess one, what about the one that they guess? Do they pick -- does the -- ?)

He don't. He don't hide it.

(He doesn't hide it the next time?)

He don't hide until this other one, you know, he hide it by himself, and it loses on him, well, the other one gets to hide the other.

(They both hide again, I see. Okay what happens if they guess two of them?)

Well, they get them.

(But they don't -- do they move the sticks.)

Nothing, nothing, no score, you know.

(No score, (not clear) they just get them.)

No score, you know, they just get them and take them on their side. They take them on their side again. Maybe, somebody guess both of them again, they just keep, you know, see-saw, you know, back.

(Yeah, yeah.)

Yeah, one time they took them people that knows how to guess, you know, he, he can get them. He can almost tell, you know.

(How -- how do they tell?)

What?

(When somebody's guess, you know, like if you're guessing, what do you -- what do you look for when you make your guess? You know what I mean? You.
