

Cards, well, good game, you know. I seen them Caddos play it.

(Yeah.)

Caddos, they use same kind of sticks.

(Yeah.)

But they put coin under that rock.

(Corn?)

Coin, you know.

(Oh, yeah.)

Maybe, dime or quarter. What ever you want to put under there, you know.

Whatever you want to bet. They put it under there, you know. First one that, you know, might say first one wins the game, well, he gets the pot.

(Yeah.) (Laughter.)

I see them play that way, you know. I didn't play, you know, but they go by fours, I think.

(Yeah.)

Four, they score four this time.

(Yeah.)

I -- I sit and I just watched them, you know.

(Did -- did the -- did the Wichitas ever do that?)

No, no.

MOCCASIN GAME

(There -- are there any other games you can think of, Joe?)

Well, let's see. I don't know. I never did see them, but I just still kind of, you know, kinda, you know. I don't know. Where this Wichita game, well, you know how those Comanche man and this Ethel's uncle, you know, he was t acher. And they use moccasins. Why, they just, you know, play little while. I don't know. I don't know how they score, but I see them play, you know, use them moccasins, two moccasins. They put that bead under there, you know. They stick it -- stick it on this other side, you know. This other
