

Always say there's a sound if anything happen that way. Well, a sound stays in there. Some night you'll hear it. You ever hear that? Over there two womans go burn up---the house. A sound stay there and at night they holler. The holler for help.

(Who were the two women?)

Susan Kaulaty. (Wife interrupts: I don't know her last name. That's her maiden name.)

CUTTHROAT GAP STORY

They had a war among them Indians. No white man around. So many different tribes around there. Them Kiowas was camping over here to Kruppstown. That's south to ah...Godo _____. There's a mountains up there. Grey Mountains. Whole lot of Kiowas camping there. And our Indians have a war among the Indians. And one morning, I guess the Osage....the Osage tribe. I guess they come along and they saw that tent...tents you know, tipi. Well, they stop; wait till it get in the morning. Everybody get sleepy so we can go and get them. And early in the morning I guess one Kiowa went out there to see the horses. And they saw a man and he was hanged out there. And he run back to the camp. And he said "tell the people I seen somebody out there coming. Get up! We gonna have war!" And everybody jump us, got the arrows, spears, and here they come. You hear them holler. And those Kiowas they got down there. They cut their head, neck off, throats...

(Now who did this?)

The Osage. Lot of Kiowas got killed out there. They cut their neck....neck off. Children, womans. That's what they call that mountain out there. Let's see how do you say by white man. Neck---neck cut-off Mountain. That's what they call it. "Mong the Indians. Cause a lotta Indians got their throat cut off.

(Is that Cutthroat Gap?)

(Wife replies, Yeah.)

(Is that why they call it Cutthroat Gap?)
