

said, "No, my mother and my daddy don't want me to get off on the ground. I can't get dirty. They told me to stay on this hide." And they told her, "No, they won't know. We will take care of you. We will watch you." So she told her sister, she said, "All right, I'm gonna tell you, my sister," she said. "Since you want me to get off and play with you all. If I chase you all, don't you miss. You run to the dog house." You know they call it "dog house". They had places where they kept dogs. She said, "Don't you go nowhere else. You run in that house, and you'll be safe," she told her sister. And her sister said, "What for?" And she said, "Well, you will find out. You want me to chase you all," she said. "You be sure. Don't you miss. You go into that dog house and you're gonna be saved." So they start, you know. She start chasing those children. So she chase them around for awhile. And pretty soon, the second time, when they all run again, she knock down one of them, you know. And then when she knocked this girl down, she scratched her somewhere with her hand, you know, and it began to bleed. So those kids said, "Oh, look, she scratched her and she is bleeding!" And they all start running around, you know. And this girl, she chase them again. Well, when she chase them again, she did the same thing. Well the third one she got a hold of, that's when she turn into a beast, you know. So this girl, her sister, she run when she seen her. She said, "Ah, look at her she's turning into a beast! We're going to run!" They call it a bear, you know. So she run, this girl, her sister, she took off and went in the dog house. And, boy, this bear just went ahead and maul all those kids, you might say. Then it took off towards the camp. Boy, they said when she came--they looked. That girl hollered. She told her mother and them, "My sister got off that rawhide and she is coming this way. You all better get ready," she said. By this time she came up. She kill
