

came after me and so I went with him and then we got married.

(How long did you know him before you got married?)

Oh, about a year I guess. Don't say anymore, it gets worse.

(Where did you get married?)

Anadarko. Justice of Peace. That's where we got married. Must be about 1916 then early part of 1917 or something like that.

(How old was Mr. Haumpy when you got married?)

He must be about 25. (Really?) Uh-hum. He's older than me.

(I know but I didn't think it was that much.)

Some of them get married, they marry an older man than I did. But I guess I made a good guess so I got me a good husband.

(Did you live with his parents or did you have a house of your own?)

We lived with his parents, and then his mother died and we kept the old man for a long time, about 1951 he died. He got sick you know. Real old man, he got sick. They couldn't do much for him and so he just died. He got good parents..

(Were both of them Kiowas?)

Uh-hum. We both Kiowas. His grandmother was a captive (by the Comanches from Mexico.)

(Now what was she?)

She was Spanish. She was a real..real white woman. She was just pure-de white..that woman. His grandmother, and her mother was kinda dark and his mother was dark and his father is dark. A real Indian he was a real Kiowa. His father's a real Indian, a real Kiowa. Dark red complexion, but his grandmother she was pure white. White woman you might say. Got some of a blue-grey eyes. Because I hear..I seen her a lot of times and her mother's kinda dark and her sister's dark. She's just got one
