

you know, he had his hands all in there, you know, he couldn't get his hands off. So that fox come up, you know and ate all them ducks after they were all roasted. After the fox all ate them up, why he start off. Then this white man, he got his hand off. He came down and said, "Why I don't know what I'm going to do. Maybe I might find him, and if I find him, I'm going to kill that fox. Kill him." So he started off. The fox went that way you know, got his belly full, you know and when he got his belly full, he got sleepy. And so you know he laid down to sleep sound asleep, you know, and soon that white man came up and find that fox was sleeping, you know, just sound asleep. "Oh, I don't know what I'm going to do with him. If I hang him I might spoil him. I believe I just build a fire and put him in the fireplace." So he built him a fire a big fire, so he going to pick him up and throw him in the fire. Well, after he got all the wood burning, you know, why he catched hold of it, catched the legs, you know, and he swing it like that you know, he going to throw when he throwed him in the fire. And that fox kind of wake up, you know, why...and when he throwed him away, why he jumped over the fire. He got away. He couldn't do nothing with it. Oh, why, I don't know what he going to do with him. That's about all I can tell about that you know. Another time they were camped, you know, a bunch of camps in there and one fellow he was kinda a big shot, you know his mind was kinda half loose or something. This fellow, he was kind of big man, you know, and when they dance, you know, why he, just like he was taking lead of all them people when they dance you know. The rest of these people, they all mistreat his brother you know. "All right," he said, Pretty soon he got both his horses and saddled them up you know he was going out and hunting buffalo, you know. Why, both of them started
