JOKING RELATIONSHIPS:

(Did people used to play games like that on their brothers or sisters-in-law?)

Yes, uhuh. That's natural in our tribe.

(What about mothers-in-law?)

No, that's different. High respect. You never have anything. Just brothers or sisters-in-law. Or vice versa. Just like a sister-in-law could tease a brother-in-law, but no two sisters-in-law or not two brother-in-laws. Has to be just crossed.

(Oh, you mean the brothers-in-law would not tease each other?)

No, yes, uhuh.

(But a brother and a sister-in-law?)

Yes, uhuh.

(Did you ever play any games like baseball or softball?)

I used to pitch a lot.

RELATIONS BETWEEN INDIAN AND WHITE CHILDREN:

(Did you ever play very often with white children?)

Yes, we had white neighbors all through the early settlers. Yes, we played with them. We all went fishing and one thing and another. There was no difference. Never did have. They play among our people especially among our people, we never did have no difference. And when Sunday comes, if you want to go for a singing deal, why then away we went.

Because..was right up here and that's where they all went.

(Square Top?)

Uhuh. That's a..used to be a school up here. That was a district school then. They had those day schools.

(Did the Indian children and the white children that you knew fight very
