

guess that's what it is.

(Did they ever try to scare children?)

No. no.

(What about today. Do parents ever say someone will get their children if they don't act right?)

Well, I was down there to my aunt's just the other day and she told them "If you all don't behave, then I was going to get you." She said the night before there were two of them hidden up there and they were just as quiet as they could be.

ATTITUDES TOWARD OWLS AND COYOTES:

(Are the Caddo afraid of owls?)

No, not to any degree, not like the Apaches, (Laughs)

(Are there any animals that are supposed to be bad animals?)

Well, the coyote I guess is one of the things, and I guess the owl would be if considered it, but it isn't anything now.

(Were coyotes or owls supposed to do anything to people?)

Well they gave a sign and that's about all.

(What about spirits? Did spirits ever get people?)

Not that I know of so far.

(Were the Caddo afraid of spirits?)

No.

(Did they ever pray to them?)

To the spirits? No. They prayed to God.

(Well, I mean in the old days. Did they pray to spirits then?)

I don't think so.

RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES IN THE HOME:

(What sort of religion did the Caddo have then?)
