

Yes, there are such stories such as that pertaining to life.

(Did your mother sing songs in the house too?)

Uhuh, she was a singer. She had a wonderful voice.

(Did she sing lullabys. Songs at night to get her children to go to sleep?)

Yes. There were a few songs that she sung for that.

(Was there any certain time that they made their children go to bed?)

Oh yes, uhuh.

(What time was that?)

It's pretty early because they went..they children were expected to rise at the same time as the parents in the morning. There was no sleeping.

(Did you have your own bed when you were growing up?)

Oh yes, uhuh.

(Did all the children have their own beds?)

Yes, they all had their own beds.

(Were there anythings that they told you to keep away from you were growing up?)

Oh yes.

(What kind of places or things would they tell you to stay away from?)

Well, whatever would be, wherever you'd be in danger. Or anything. Because girls were not allowed to roam. You'd let boys go. Their job or intentions were that they should learn how to survive in woods or anything like that and the girls their main uh, was home making. They never went off of the place. You never roam around if just like you say, you remember that slogan that ladies should be seen and not heard. So that was one of the things. A girl or something like that if you had visitors. why you're supposed to go off and you never listen to the elders say any-
