

It was kind of a pale blue. Kind of then they had like...oh, you can see them now, then, kind of like an evening gown. That was very little difference ((?)) just the pale blue.

(It was long?)

Yes.

(What did your husband wear?)

A green suit.

(A green suit?)

Yes.

(Did you have flowers?)

No, I didn't have flowers. We didn't know where the flowers were.

(What was his name?)

Thomas Robinson.

(Thomas Robinson? Did he tell you that he loved you?)

Yes, he told me that he loved me.

(When he first starting writing to you?)

Yes.

(When did you get around to telling him that you loved him?)

Oh, I guess, about the second or third letter, I guess. I don't remember.

((Not clear))

Is that what you want me to remember?

(Yes. What did your step mother wear? She was your witness at your wedding?)

Uh-huh. I don't remember, but I think she had a blouse and a skirt. I kind of remember.

(Did you have any pictures taken?)

No.

(Did you go on a honeymoon?)
