

Yeah, they wear shawls.

(At the dance?)

No, they wear long skirts and them - just the plain old dresses.

(On the southern tribes, the Apaches and Comanches, and the Kibwas...)

Yeah, they have that.

(They have the long shawls and everything.)

Uh-huh.

(You camped out at them?)

Uh-huh. We camped out.

(In tents?)

Uh-huh.

(Did they hand out food or did you bring your own?)

You brought your own.

(How long did they last?)

Oh, about three days.

RED ROOT TEA WAS USED

(What else did they do at them besides just dance?)

Well, they take medicine, but I think I better not tell that.

(Peyote?)

No, huh-uh. They take medicine.

(What kind of medicine?)

Just some kind of a root.

(A root? Oh. Did they have a ceremony with it?)

Well, they started out under the, what you call them "arbors". Just the men folks.

(And none of the women never took it?)

Huh-uh.

(Do you know what kind of a root it was?)
