

(Was that the one at Rainy Mountain?)

They call it the Washita Boarding School or the Kiowa School. It was down there in the northwest part of Anadarko on that a bend.

(Where Riverside is. Oh yeah.)

Use to be a school house down there. Long time ago.

(And how long did you go to school?)

I went to school in 1889 then I come out in 1895. I quit school.

(That was the year he graduated.)

I went five years.

(And what grade did you quit in?)

I quit in the fifth grade.

(What did you study when you went to school?)

Well, I study arithmetic, and some kind of geography and studied reading they call it McGuffey readers, you know. They give them to study on.

(Sing him your graduation song.)

Yeah, that's the time I got graduated.

(At that time it was an honor when they reached the fifth grade they call that graduating and he remembers his graduation song.)

Yeah, I was supposed to go to the sixth grade but I didn't study my sixth grade. I study two lessons then I finish it. Then they let me out, they sent me home.

(Is this where he first learned English?)

Yes, uh-uh.

(Name some of your teachers do you remember some of your teachers?)

(Their names, your Superintendent?)

Well, the first Superintendent there, was in there; his name was George Gregory. George Gregory and his wife Mary Gregory. And after I get a
