

I couldn't sing that song. He never taught me that song. If I had been able I would have told a lie but I don't want to tell lie.

(Now, this grandfather was he on your mother's die or your father's side Gei Oug Mah (??)).

He was on mother's side.

(Oh HEIDSIKE ((Spell correctly on interview 73-kw from the field school of 1967)) was on your father's side. Oh, then you had both chiefs then. You had one chief Heidsike and Gei Oug Mah (?) was a medicine man. Is that right?)

Yeah. Then that man said he got me. He threw that gun right on my face. (HEIDSIKE lived to the age of 102)

Well, he start to pull the trigger and my Grandpa pulled out his medicine horn and he said that trigger on that gun it fell off, broke off.

(Do you think he would tell us how he got his medicine?)

I couldn't tell. He chewed his medicine and he spit on it.

(The gun?)

He is a powerful man that man is. He says when he is going to pull the trigger that time I, "I pull out my medicine and the trigger just fell off, broke off and he couldn't pull the trigger. And I had the spear and I speared him right below his heart (not clear)

(With his hands?)

"I got him" he says. "Then I stab him" he says. Grandpa he is a big medicine man. (Cannot understand...(not clear)

(What was his name?)

Grandpa stalked (?) that was the last look. He says another time a Navaho and he had a bow and arrow, and then grandpa says "Hey what you all doing. Why don't you kill him?" He said "One of these days you are going to have me killed." He says, he want to kill him before I come
