

and got all gathered up together talking and finally they brought him in. And they got him down and put him in tipi and this man was doctoring him doctoring him and stop all that blood. He kept doctoring him. They don't have no kind of salve or nothing to put on, but he was just doctoring from his breath, you know, blow on it and pretty soon everything's all right. And fiannly they gave him all the doctor bills and that horse, when he got well and he told them how it happened ; that that bear got to him. He told them everything at the beginnging and he said, "If you don't believe me, the bear's over there, " you know. And a bunch of them went over and seen that bear and sure enough it's laying there you know he killed it. Well that's the way I know the story.

STORY OF CRAZY HILL:

(Louise was then asked if she knew the story of Crazy Hill.)

Well, this is Crazy Hill, why I heard there was a bunch of Kiowas, well about this there was some Apaches too, they were all together, all the time, Kiowas and Apaches, seem like they always be together. And the Kiowas camped in one end, and the Apaches camped in one end. Well, that's how they been together a long time, and that's how come we're called Kiowa-Apaches. And they had a big camp going on on and that Crazy Hill, on the bottom you know, on the north side, they're all camping there and one time this man, he's kind of jealous at another man, you know, he was afraid he was flirting with his wife. And he got so mad at him, they say he went over there he shot him with an arrow. And killed him, and went all the parents was scared that another man was going to come along and kill them too. So he went and jump in the water, he gump in the river this Crazy Hill, on the north side there's a river there, the Washita River. And And he had a while sheet over his head, you know and he put it in his mouth and he dive in the water, across that high water, it was way after a rain,
