

Oh, I'm afraid to tell you. Nearly forty.

(How many children do you have?)

I just got seven girls and two boys. I had a boy a prisoner in the war. You know when they first fight them Japs. World War II--I had a boy for nearly four and a half years. He was the first one got captured.

(Are you the only one around here with the name "Snake?")

Before I married my name was Hunter. Hunter--my dad's. You know those Yeah.

Indians when the first white man come. They ask them you know, what's your name? Well, there's a lot of Indians got animals' names. Well, they ask my daddy said what's your name? And he said Hunter because he used to be good hunter. He just said Hunter and that's how come we got that name. And my husband's --they old man they ask him what was his name and he said Snake. They just--anything on their head they just say it what they know in English, and so they just name his Snake. And my mother's daddy--they all kid each other. They said what was your name in English and she said Wagon and they just put Wagon down.

(Is your husband a Shawnee?)

He's Shawnee and Delaware. His fater was Shawnee and his mother was Delaware.
