

(Did your parents know him?)

No. My father did, but my mother died in 1921. I was five years old when she died.

(Did your father re-marry?)

Yes, he re-married. One of my mother's friends.

(Did your grandparents know him at all?)

No. Just my grandma.

(What did she think of him?)

Oh, they like him.

(She liked him real well?)

Oh, for a while. Until they get use to him. My highest ambition was going through school.

(What grade were you in?)

Got to ninth grade. A

(You finished ninth grade?)

Eighth grade.

(Did you like school right away?)

I guess so. My sister live up here about four miles from the house. We use to walk, and they use to come over quite a lot. My brother-in-law lives there.
(not clear) Not like that now.

(Did you live in town?)

No, we never did.

(Did you come through there?)

Yeah. We just come through.

(Someone else is always there---)

Well, we use to visit my sister on farm or something. (not clear) Sometimes
