

on his own, and he wondered over there to the wedding. I noticed him crawling under the tent, side of the tent, into the tent, and he crawled over there, where my sister was sitting and she was crying, and I was sitting close enough to where I could hear him talk to her, and he said, "Don't cry Mary, I go home and tell momma you crying," he said. So ah - she didn't pay any attention to him, she was crying. So he crawled out again, and I guess he came home to tell my mother that Mary was crying. My mother, they said, really did cry when he came and told her that. And ordinarily they cried anyway. And ah - just like I said, I don't know if they were crying cause their daughter was getting married - whether they was sad, or whether they was - crying with joy. I don't know. But I imagine in my mother's case she was kinda sad: cause Mary was just quite young and then when she heard she was crying over there, that made her cry so, ah - that's what - I had forgot to mention - during the - when I was telling about the wedding ceremony, and dinner and all. So - I thought that was - that always stood out in my memory 'bout Edward crawling under that tent. I could just see him today. He was probably the neglected child - he had little striped overalls on - bib overalls. So my mother probably too busy - too - everybody was too busy to dress him up or anything. So he was over there in his little overalls.

(WAKON IRON) MR. WAKON IRON INCLUDES INFORMATION ABOUT CHURCH

I want to relate one thing that - ah - I was - it came to me unexpectedly, and while I was a member of the Osage Indian Baptist Church. While we were making our progress in church. I was appointed by the home board by those who were making appointment with the field secretary. J.W. Beagle wrote to me and told me I was assigned to this church while
