

And when they came to Kansas well the Kiowas went ahead and adopted him in their tribe. Kiowa tribe. And he become a full member in the Kiowas tribe. After they bought him, that's a custom of the Indians. Way back there. So they treat him just like he was one of them. Treat him just exactly the same. So they originate around Kansas after--Colorado to Kansas and they stayed around there, around Kansas there for awhile and finally they driven back to Oklahoma. Where we present living now today. In Oklahoma in Caddo County. So we originate here and when they come here and the settlement in this Oklahoma well, my grandfather came here in this very place that this house is on, on this place. He went and he was kind of like a middleaged man then.

MARRIAGE:

So he went across the creek over there and before he had established this place, my grandmother was also captured by the Kiowas from Chihuahua. My grandmother was and she is part of the Spanish settlement. Because she's not no, what they call these dark Mexicans. She's light just like a white people. Real white. So they people that captured my grandmother, well they, I don't know, somehow or other, I guess they--in those days, you know they used to marry those people like that, like my grandmother and my grandfather, they married them. So they, when my grandfather married my grandmother, they, well my grandfather's folks went ahead and give horses and stuff, you know, to my grandmas folks. Give it to them to-- they got married. When they got married they come and that's when it start the first government agency at Anadarko. Northwest, northeast corner of Anadarko. It was a log house there and it was built for the purpose of Indian Agency. And then they had a place where they give rations. They made a big long building there and they give rations there every month. So my grandfather started, when that first agency started here in Anadarko my grandfather went down there and ask them to get a job.
