

they went on and they got, oh, two or three days more journey and uh - (Static). Said, "I'm going to go out and look, see if I could locate some, what we're lookin' for." He didn't say what he was looking for, but he said he was going to go and see. So he went on and he got over there at some mountain. There was a mountain there. And he walked around there and he looked around there. He couldn't find what he want. So he went back to where his wife was. Got over there. So that night they rested. Next morning early, real early, why they left. So they start walking again. They start going, start going. In them days they walk, no horses. No way to get around. So finally they come to their own valley and they found out where the camp was. Where they left it. They came back and said everything was still there yet, belongings and everything, teepee. They came on back home empty, they didn't get a thing, not a thing. But the only thing that did happen was when the old lady wished, you know, about that meat. Well uh - it came true, they got that meat. And they thought; you know, when they eat that they thought something might happen. They might turn into something, poison, or get killed; something but nothing happen. "I know," he said, "the Great Spirit answered your prayers." And she went and eat that stuff and nothing happened, and they came back home. Well, that's the end of that story there.

(You know any other stories that follows that?)

STORY ABOUT TWO BEAUTIFUL GIRLS

MARY: (Words not clear) Same old man, old man going to some... (MARY IS NOW SPEAKING IN KIOWA)

CHARLES: And this old man, Gaw-ki (spelled phonetically), the same one in the first story. They went out on another trip, way out north, wilderness. And they got out there same way. They went out there and when they came to uh- uh- river. And they come to a river, this old lady was over there, cooking some, he went over there to look for thing, you know. So when he
