

clean the barn. After noon his future wife brought him some lunch. She told the boy to eat so he could have strength. The boy ate and when he was finished he became sleepy. The girl told him, "Go ahead and take a nap and I will try to do some of this for you." The boy took a nap and when he woke up the girl had finished the job. He asked, "Did I sleep long?" She replied, "No, you were probably sleepy because you did not sleep too well during the past few days." She told him, "Go on up to the house and tell my father that you have finished the barn. I am going around the other way so they won't suspect anything." The boy went back and told the old man that he had finished the job. The old woman mumbled and said, "I wonder if she told him." She was suspicious about the girl. The old man Red Hat said, "Good. Tomorrow I have another job for you to do. I want you to fix my fence." Early the next morning the boy tried to straighten out the fence but it was all tangled up. He tried and tried until noon. The girl came with some lunch and said, "I brought some lunch for you to eat." She fed the boy and after he finished his lunch he became sleepy again. She told him, "Go ahead and take a nap and I will try to help while you're sleeping." The boy took his nap and while he was asleep she finished the job for him. She had fixed the fence and had even fixed a gate. When he awoke she told him to go back and tell the old man that he finished the job. She said, "I'll go around the other." The boy went back to the house and told the old man he finished the job. Red Hat was waiting for him and greeted him saying, "How is everything, friend?" Again the old lady mumbled and said, "I suppose she helped him or told him." The old lady was suspicious about the girl. Red Hat said, "I have another job for you to do before you go with your wife tomorrow. I have a well to be cleaned out. I've been meaning to clean it out for some time but haven't gotten around to it. When you have cleaned this well you will be finished." The next morning the boy got up early and started to work but this time he did not know what to do. It's pretty hard to go down into the well and it's a long way down. He tried to make a step ladder but couldn't make it long enough. Again the girl came at noon and brought his
