

(Is that that Itse?)

No, you get Itse down there too. And this one too, you could get it up there.

(What is that kind called?)

Butta sas, Budou sas, that's the name of it.

(What is that used for?)

It's for anybody with a stomach trouble all the time. You make tea out of it and drink it. Gets them well.

(How do you get it?)

I just, you know, inquire, around about anybody that goes to New Mexico and come back. If they know something about it, they always bring it. But especially these Mescalero Indians, they've been up there fourth of July some of them. I don't know if they brought any back or not. So hot for anybody to get out there and get it, you know. Big old rattlesnakes are out there. It's best to go in the fall when snakes go back in the den. Right now, it's sure bad. You have to have a gun and boots out to get up there.

(Do you keep your medicines here?)

Yes.

(How do you keep them?)

Just in a grip.

(How many do you have?)

I don't know. All kinds of them.

(Do you think someday I could see them?)

You could see them now, after awhile.

(I would really like to.)

Right now. Yes if it's o.k.

(It's o.k.)
