

We use to mend stockin's and things like that.

(Yeah, we had a light bulb or a wooden ball we put the heel or the toe of the stockin' over you know. Boy, you could work on one of those things for a long time. If you didn't get it just right, the woman that supervised the mending room she come along and cut across the threads you know, for you--)

--then you have to do it over.

(--then you have to do it all over. But we did--we hemed the sheets and pillow cases and dish towels and we didn't get to make any garments you know, but everybody had his own work to do. Big boys worked in the dairy and all.)

My nephews he in Edison, he use to milk cows, I think--

(Worked in the dairy?)

(Pop: It's cold too.)

(You worked in the dairy, too?)

Yeah.

(He worked in the dairy. I wonder who made the garden, do you know?)

(Pop: I don't remember no garden.)

I think they had it, you know, that road that go toward Colgate? On the other side of the track, I think, what they use to call MunDay. He's the one that use to work up there somewhere. They use to bring garden stuff. And the boys after school I think they work it.

(Pop: Cut wood.)

Had wood fires. I think some of them use to say they go and pick cotton I don't know whether they did or not. Some of the girls use to tellp-- (I guess it being an Orhaphns Home they stayed there year around didn't they?)

Yeah, but I always come home when school was out, but one time I stayed.
