

(Bill Dandridge? No.)

He's the one said there's a good doctor down there in Kansas. So we took her down there. She had blood disease. But Dr. Carson they call him--he said she's too late. He couldn't do a thing for her. So we had to bring her back and he said we'll take good care of her, she'll die the first of March. The first of March she died. 1911 I think it was, I forgot. (--) Yeah, she died when he said that, we didn't believe that.

(She died, you mean?)

Uh-huh.

(What was her last name, your Aunt Mary?)

Laflöre.

(Mary Laflöre?)

Uh-huh. She was married to Watkin Laflöre, but her name was Mary Durant we got a date, grandppa put them all in there. Her name was Durant and she had a sister named Elizabeth--I mean Izabel. (Izabel Laflöre. There's probably lots of Laflores around.)

Yeah, there is.

(There was a lot of Choctaws named Laflöre.)

There use to be a lot of Durant's too, but their all gone.

(Did you ever know any Locks?)

Yeah, fellow down there, Victor Lock, live here, Bennⁿington somewhere. But I think he's dead. I don't know. I didn't know him myself. But my grandpa did and my old man did. Some kind of officer of something.

(Officer? That's right. I believe Willie was talking about him being he was probably in the National Guard maybe or in that War World I army outfit, maybe a captain or something?)
