

(You were talking about your older brother, did you and him have any kind of special games you liked to play, do you have any stories about him?)

No, we don't hardly play any kind of games. He comes around from his home up here to break horses with me.

(Did your sister get married?)

Yeah, she's got children. She died about....I just don't know what years she died. Back there. She had....one, two, I think she had bout....I know there's a boy who is still living, two died.

(When did she first get married?)

Well, I just can't tell you that. I....she got married way back...I can't tell you what date she was married on.

(Do you remember how old she was?)

Well, I just don't know how old she was when she got married.

(About how big were you when you first went to school?)

Seven.

(You said you went to Cache Creek?)

Yeah, Cache Creek Mission.

(And graduated in four years?)

Yeah, I graduated from fourth grade.((laughs))

(How was that school? Can you tell me about it?)

Well, mostly what they taught was the Bible. When I went to school there, in the mornings we got to school work then. We have meeting so long and then after that they have their school work then. We have meeting so long and then after we get through we go to school works.

(What kind of things did they teach there? In your schoolwork?)

Well, they teach us mostly what they learn now. Arithmetic, reading. That's what they teach us now.

(Could you speak English? When you first went to school?)
