

that the Indians, not go on the warpath, not go to war no more. You know, if the Indian was to fight that case today, the Indian could never go out into war. They can't force him to go to war because that's their own word out of their own tongue. Made by the first president of the United States and that's George Washington. He made that own statement and he stamped it. And it came down there generation down and that it's here today. That we don't want the other countries, like Russia, China and other country to come down here and ruin our country here, the United States. So whenever they call our boys, in the first second and third war, and now this is going on the third war, now in Viet Nam, our boys didn't say, "No, we don't have to go fight. We don't have to according to our law. They can't force us to go because our forefathers made an agreement with the United States that we would not go on the warpath, will not fight anymore nowhere. They layed everything down so we don't have to go." They don't have to go and they can't force them. They can't court martial them, they can't kill them, they can't prison them. No way that whatsoever if they go according to the old law way back there. But it's to show the people of this world that we love our country and we want to stand for it with our flag and that's why we go to war. To keep them from coming destroying our country. And you know, God has been with us ever since and he's always going to stay with us. He's going to hear our prayers and he's going to do what he wants us to do. His to live. We can't go beyond him. No way whatever. Lot of people think that Indians don't know nothing, but we got a little sense in there! (interruption.)

--No, I was just telling you just what little that I know about the law of getting into battle field anymore, see. Way back there, that's the way it been made so ain't a China man chance to get them. If the Indians don't want to go, they can't do a thing. They can't throw them in jail, or kill them or punish them because that's their own law. They made it. Unless they want to cut and chop it down, their own. Anyhow on the other hand the Indians has said this they said, "Well, it's alright, we'll go because we don't want our country
