

a fire, outside fire because it's the one that makes big coals and it's the one to put that thing on that--what I want to look for now. And I had lot of, great big ball of it you know and my daddy lived back there he always get it for me. He give it to me.

(Now what's--what's this medicine?)

It's for that face where it's twisted. You put on the coals and after you doctor them with this medicine that we get over here. I get that and I doctor them with that and then after you get through with that you put that heater--that funny stuff, it looks like chewing gum.

(What's the name--is there an Indian name?)

Yeah it's an Indian name for it.

(What is it in Indian?)

ROCK MEDICINE, WHERE TO FIND IT

(Says Comanche word)--is uh, rock medicine because it's, it's stuck to a rock. And (Comanche word) means a rock and (Comanche word) is medicine. It's stuck to the rock and the medicine you get out of the rock. You know its big, some kind of (words not clear), I don't know what kind of, oh I don't know the words, they make that it.

(What time of year do you find it?)

Right now is the best time to get it.

(Now where is this found?)

It's way back here. We go to the park, then go up that way and go to path and go right straight to Indianhoma and pass Indianhoma and we turn off road and then we go way north more about four or five miles and then turn west and then about another three miles and that, those hill up there and the mountain right there, there's a little mountain over there it's all in there.

(What's the name of the little mountain?)

Oh, I don't know what it is, what's the name of it. That's where my brother
