

grandpa--(and other relatives) "Hey, if you like me, go with me." "I go with you. I go hunt with you; huh? Look for something? Everything. I cook for you." He make him satisfied and they went together. After a while they get to the river and Sainday runned back. And that bear was going. He look back and Sainday was gone. "Sainday, where you at?" He ran back. He hide himself. Now he go on. Now he save him. They don't kill him. Nobody can't kill Sainday. Nobody can't kill Sainday. Nobody can't kill Sainday. Nobody. That's a third story.

(That's really good. How do you say 'stinking feet' in Kiowa?)

anbodl

(Again?)

anbodl tai.g a

SAINDAY TRICKS-O KOIMAH

(Mrs. McDaniels, Eugenia's daughter, asks her to tell one about o koimah )

I don't know what o koimah means. Kiowas call o koimah -- I think it's 'gorilla.' Something like that. They call them o koimah -- Maybe it's gorilla or something. O koimah was coming. Coming by the mountain. And Sainday was. They meet each other. And O koimah began to speak to Sainday. "Oh, my, what a good feast I'm going to have this afternoon. You're a good big man, Got big meat--big muscle--I'm gonna have good thing for supper. I'm going carry you to my home. Going kill you and going boil you--boil your head. I like the head first. I got some boil over here. I'm going eat you up." And Sainday said, "Oh, just the same way I (do to) you. I'm going to carry you to that river over there. I'm going to kill you and cook you and eat up." The same way what that O koimah said, Sainday said that, too. "I'm going kill you. I like to eat something like you. You're such a big one." "I'm going to kill you." "I'm going to kill." He grabbed him up. He got a big sack. Sainday was tall man. He just grab that--O koimah, he's strong. He just grab him and put him in the