broke down. Her sister's gone. So I said, "Since I been back home I've slept two or three hours and the arrangement's made so that the funeral will be Saturday morning at the Bartist Church--" That's my church. So she said, "Listen, this is Tuesday. We'll be there Thursday night so we'll have a good rest. We're going on the rain o the City. as you know, we got two cars, but we're going on the train so that we can be- But we can get a Hertz car in Oklahoma Ci y and drive out fro there." I said; "You get directions from Huckins Hotel, and you get the map--Cklahoma map--and call El Reno Folice Department ney'll direct you out of El Reno into the road that comes to Geary. And from here you'll know the marker." And she said, "I will." Finally she said, "Well, ake it the best you can, Jesse. You need any money, just call me." "No," I said, "We got an account here." ..hich we did have. We had $900, in the Liberty Bank in Oklahoma City. So he next day I sent my wo daugh ers and one of he girls to ge her size of clothes and go to El Reno or Oklahoma City and get her clothes. And she had a diamond ring that I gave her and a Navajo ring that she loved-and a Navajo bracelet. ...nd they asked me, when her sister got here, she was all dressed up, and her hair combed, and Indian style earringsshe always had (unintelligible word) that doing beadwork, and she loved it. My granddaughter made that. And her sis er asked e what I was going o do abou her ring. "mell," I said, "She loved it and I give it to her-to nabody else bu her." "Well, what about her ring and bracelet?" I said, "She liked hem. She even slept in them. Le's let her keep on." "Well," she said, "All right." So we just buried her with ker d amond ring and her bracelett. Then my sister-in-law said, "Jess, daddy and mo ma is all buried at the Colorado Springs cenetary. It's a beautiful place. And there's a reserved not near Dad. She's always ca ered-and always fond of her fa her. Her father in armalways favored her above te. She's devoted to her father." "Well," I said, "I knew that--she always told me." She says, "Well, could we ship the body out?" I said, "Yeah, we can ship it." She said, "I'll be up there when they bury her." I said, "All righ. We'l arrange i so this Rock Isla d going to Amarillo, and then on or h, to Denver, carry the body up." and she said, "As soon as we know he da e we gorma ge all the church reople up here, our church, Episcopalians-all he friends that she has-no ified, and We'll call you a day ahead. you'll have plen y of ime, to get there." I said, "All right." So that next night my two
