

(Well how did your dad select his?)

Well he select his in the hayland - 80 acres of good hayland. That's where we made our livin' for many years. On joint prairie hay. We usually put up 30 or 40 stacks of hay. And we sold that hay to neighbors around the country. Sometimes they come in from Chickasha, Carlwell, Enid, Amarillo. They come in and bought our hay in stacks. They bale it.

(Were these white people?)

White people. Ranchers. And the race horse people.

(End of tape.)
