

his ear, the witches. Sometimes them witches get together and play their own game--trying to witch among their ownelves. I don't like them. They trick you. They'll beat you. I used to play. I used to throw it. See, I'd make out like--I sit this way and I get all the extension and all I can and then--he'll go this way and I ain't got it, it's gone. It's right here or maybe I throwed it here. I got here and I got here.

(That's wonderful. I know if I ever tried that I'd get caught.)

Lots of them used their mouths--lots of them. Blow it. Sometimes they--what do they do when they catch you cheating (speaks Kiowa) they have sticks in a fire and they got coal, fire on there. And if they catch you cheating they just beat you with that.

THE ARROW GAME IS SIMILAR TO HORSESHOES IN ITS RULES

(Well, what's this Arrow Game like?)

Arrow game is--now, the way they do now, they set an arrow right here on the ground. They sit another one here. One fellow get over there and another fellow get over here and another one over here--four of them. It's just like the horseshoe. And they take arrows and they shoot. Whoever gets the closest like that, or maybe he hit it, he gets so much. And sometimes they shoot up here. They so good, they perfect, they split them arrows. The arrows are set with you on this side and you on this side. You playing against me and this fellow, we're partners over here. And we're playing against you. Now, if I shoot and I get my arrow close to that stake like that, maybe that counts five or ten. Now, you have to shoot to beat me. You might have shot and get your arrow like that. But I had mine touching this stake here. They got two stakes only about as big around as my little finger. They got feathers on there on