

no, Comanche. He's a white man. And he grows with the Comanche peoples and he can't talk English.

(My! That's real interesting!)

He's a white man. He gets lots of childrens living.

MORE ON KIOWA CHIEFS: HUNTING HORSE & ISEEO

(I've heard of another Kiowa chief, Hunting Horse, Is he a chief?)

Hunting Horse, he's not any chief. He's just--they just like him. He's not chief.

(He's not?)

He's not any chief like Lone Wolf, and Ahpehtone and those others. No, he's just--they like him. Hunting Chief, he's sure good man. He's kind. He just pet anybody. That's why they like him. And he's old timer. That's why they like him. He's not any chief.

(Oh yeah, how bout this other fellow that I heard of, name Iseeo?)

Iseeo. Oh--he's just. He's not chief. But he used to belong to the Ft. Sill soldiers. Way back there, Indian--Kiwas--men they joined in the army at Lawton. I got picture over there. And there's where he belong to the soldiers. He joined the soldiers. He can't talk English. But his mind good. And he do everthing for them. And--what is his name? (Speaks Kiowa) What is his name--that soldier man, Scott? He's the one that take him around. And you know the Sioux was fighting. Sioux--I guess you hear bout them. The Sioux and nobody can't stop them. The Sioux are bad. And they fighting about something I guess. And this man Scott--

(Is that General Scott?)

(Daughter: Probably.)

Lt. Scott they call him. I saw him. He said, "Iseeo, you go with me to the
