

(Charlie: That's that other one's name - - domedo.mah - - "looking-for-land"
The other one, Big Bow daughter - - same story. Big Bow, his boy name Little Bow. She got long hair. She get up - - (unintelligible word) - - hair about that long. It's natural. They got pretty hair 'bout that thick.
Hair. Way down. Her name W.edlto.mah

(Charlie: That would be "talking," you know, to people. "Talking-to-people.") That's Big Bow's daughter. His boy's daughter - Little Bow's daughter. First boy, Little Bow and Big Bow.

(Some unintelligible comments)

(Now, is Big Bow your dad?)

(Charlie: That's his dad.)

Big Bow is your real dad?)

Big bow is my dad. Little Bow his brother name Little Bow. Suppose to name my dad Little Bow. He - - first one Little Bow. My dad Big Bow.

(Did your dad ever go to war?)

No, he just Indian police, that's all. That's all war. Big Bow, grandfather, stopped the war. No more war at that time.

(Oh, well, tell about when he was Indian police.)

Well, he's the first one Indian police. They got some kinda star here. On chest, they not star - they other kind with "U.S." right there (perhaps referring to shield-shaped badge). And some more Indian police, my dad. They got about nineteen Indian police, or twenty-one Indian police in early day, Anadarko town. Indian Police. Twenty-one.

(Charlie: Let me tell you what he's telling you. You see, at that time they were fighting all over, but he surrendered. He's the only one that surrendered among the Kiowas. And the general told him, said, "We're gonna give you this flag. You go around and tell the people - - tell your Indian
