

(Yeah, that's who I'm talking about.)

Ruth: And then he was married to Wilhelmina and he had several children from her, too. Altogether, I guess, Charlie's got about thirty brothers and sisters - -

Charlie: Yes, two (meaning two children from Wilhelmina)

Ruth: - - Half-brothers and sisters, on his father's side.

(Wilhelmina who?)

Charlie: Wilhelmina Kauigy.

(Now how does your brother, Charles Tartsah, figure in?)

Ruth: That's his mother's side - - same mother and different father.

Charlie: - - same mother.- -

(Now who is his father?)

Ruth: Tartsoh.

Charlie: His father is name Tartsoh - - he's Apache.

Ruth: He's Apache.

Charlie: That's where I get my Apache- -

(Where do you get your Apache- -?)

Ruth: Right there - - from Charles and them. Charles and (unintelligible name - - of another brother). See, they were first - - and he was just enrolled as Apache cause their father (referring to Tartsoh, father of Charles and the other brother) was an Apache.

(But your father wasn't - - So you're really not any Apache at all?)

Ruth: He was Choctaw - - (referring to Charlie's dad) No, he's not (answering my question above), but he's enrolled under that.

(I think this is just fabulous!)

Ruth: He's not any Apache at all, but he's Choctaw and Kiowa, and Mexican and Irish - - little bit of everything.

(I never have met anybody so mixed up!)
