

•(Who did you marry?)

I marry Hoke Smith, Walter Hoke Smith.

(Who's Captain Hoke Smith?)

Maybe that's him.

(Is he still living?)

Yeah, he's still living, but he can hardly see so good though.

(How many children did you have?)

I had two by him. Girl was oldest and boy next. Kids ruined our well. They throw things in it. And ever sine then we ain't got no well.

(Why did the kids do that?)

Just playing around it and I guess they done that. Ever sine that we ain't got no well. We had to haul water from the spring up Stoney Point.

(I bet that gets hard when winter comes.)

Yeah.

(When did you get married again?)

I married Hoke Smith, I don't know just when it was. I got all the things put up and I don't know just where it--my married license are. And after we separated, I was without a man for long time. Then I married my husband. I just can't remember what year we got married. I know it was sometimes in September but I don't know what year it was. We had all our things in a box and important things, you know, in little cedar chest, somebody stole the whole thing when we was moving from the church.

(Did you or your husband ever belong to the peyote church?)

CHURCH MEMBERSHIP:

What church?

(Native American Church?)

No, never has. We belong to the Comanche church up here, Mt. Scott Comanche.

(What do you think of the Native American Church? Do you think it's good thing or bad or...)
