

and looks like a house there too with it, that maybe where they butcher cows, and they give every Indian cow to kill and they call them. Say, "Your cow's coming in. Get ready." So they have to get in there and kill their cow. Everybody get their cow, get their meat you know. That's how I remember that.

(How many times a year did they get a cow?)

That time? I don't remember. Maybe once a year, something like that. I just don't know how many years they get it.

(What kind of wagon did you all travel on?)

It just a wagon like these wagons we used to have. With that spring seat on it, and got those poles up here where you put canvas on it, keep sun off.

(Where did you all get the wagons?)

I don't remember where they got it. I know we had wagon. I don't know what happened to it.

STORES:

(What kind of things did they sell at that Red Store you were talking about?)

They sell groceries and dry goods, and shoes and everything like that a person need. There was on the NE side was old Man Cox's store and on this side on the SE side was Pascal's Store, and on this W. side was Lawrance Store, I don't know what his first name is. His boys name is Arthur Lawrance. That's three stores there, and when we going to get our money too, everybody go there and the one that got baby by another man, and they don't want to tell them, they don't give them their money. They have to tell who's the father of their baby before they get their money. That's how I know that too.
