

to get that poison out of her system but--old man said, "Mother, you get any of that snake medicine?" Mama said, "We could go dig it. It's up on the hill." So they went down there and got knives--you know to dig it with just knife and said as far as you aim can go you can dig it. He dig it that far--he dig it and put the root out. And they went back and he fixed that--wash it clean you know. And fix it. He told his mama, he said, "Mama go tell them. I'll doctor that lady." So his mama went down there and told them. She said--the man when to go in that tent the man said, "What you want lady?" She said, "I just come to tell you my son want to doctor that lady." Some of them said, "That young boy." She said, "Yeah, that young boy." And then one of the men said, "Let him try. He might get her well. We can't get her well. Let him try it." So he said, "Bring your boy here." So when he came over those other all went out. All the doctors went out. So he doctored that lady-- here like that and then that swollen was gone. He keep mocking it. Said he tied up but he called it he "That's all we can do. We've going to tie it up here and it's gonna go down." So he did. He doctored that lady and that swollen went down before night. Before evening. And he said he know that medicine, but it's hard to get since the cows, you know. Lots of cows all in the pastures and they eat everything. Said, "Somebody you can't hardly find it when the cows eat it." Yeah that's what he told me that he doctored that lady. I was kind of elderly lady, you know.

(Did the other doctors in there have that medicine too?)

No, they just trying to doctor without that medicine. I don't know how but there was about 6 or 7 of them doctors in there but old man,
