

((The carry on a short conversation in Kiowa))

Chas: Yeah, in a future time, if you accept it, somebody might get hurt in your family. See, it's bad.

Jack: With their power, they even charm a woman. They charm a woman.

Any--I don't care how good woman she is-- Diasey: What about Conklin. This woman was happily married, they had good family, and he went and got her.

Jack: That's how they use that medicine, they don't use it right.

That's why their medicine don't have power to cure what they supposed to because they (--) charm womans and --

((CHARLIE AND JACK TALK ABOUT THE YELLOW-HAMMER FEATHERS I HAVE IN MY HAT BAND AS BEING SQUAW MEDICINE))

Jack: Yeah, some of them got scissor tails, parrot feathers--they got different ways. Charm women, girls.

Diasey: I don't know what it is but I thought maybe it was my mind. I say layd me down st uand me up. Before daylight came I was a sick person.

I hermorrhage so bad the whole mattress and the whole floor--I didn't think I had any left. Because I refuse see. Then they took me to the hospital. After I got well out of the hospital I--when I seen her--well my cousin Ted, he's a preacher, he said, next time you see her, kick her.

So I kick her and I broke my leg and the doctor said did I get in a car wreck, was I drunk or what.

Jack: At the annual conference early in the morning I was stacking poles and she said she saw her sitting on them poles. She got mad and she run up and she thought she kick, and she hit one of them poles, broke her leg.

Daisey: She wasn't sitting there she was--sitting where there was an umbrella tree. And right up front, I tholught well I'm going to kick her,
