

like I said, too many people Americans not always born in American, American both at heart and I must have been born in heart when I was in Poland with an American heart. Of the forefathers that come here from different countries and made American and I feel like I was one the forefathers and I helped to fight and preserve American ideals. And I am still for America. People who live in this country do not realize what they have (--) the freedom forever.

(You say your cousin is the one that started the store?)

Yes, course it's really his--my brother related and to the husband. It was to my cousin. She married a man owned the store here. Came here and I started working here. He was just like a father to me.

(What was his name?)

His name was Mile Grolnick. He came from Poland years back. Used to be a peddler in this country. And then he settled down and opened this store here. And was very generous in every way. Taught me the American way of life. Shall I tell about the different -- belong to different organizations?

(Yeah, you can.)

Also would help me whole lot in my life you know when man comes to different world he's got two chances. He lines up with one creek or another. I was fortunate that the people like Masons, Odd Fellows, Legion, Veterans of Foreign war and Odd Fellows taken a hold of me and taught me the American way of life; the right way of life. And that's what helped me hold out in my life.

(What about your school here? Did you ever--)

I never went to school in this country and all speaking or writing or bookkeeping or management, I learned just by experience. So follow-
