

ing some people that knew things, asking questions, and try to observe, and never ask anything, didn't expect anything. I believe like one of best presidents said that, "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country." If everyone can do this, they all can do for themselves because we all are the country. Each one of us is part of the country. Some people say government gives this and government gives that. They don't realize that we are the government. That the more we ask the government, more takes for the government to pay it back to us. So the more we do for them the less the government will have to give us.

(What about that story that you were telling me about what the Indian told you that night when he came in?)

Bout working late at night? Not long ago a few Indians working for the city here and they collected half their pay that afternoon and they have to go away someplace. The next morning early, when I opened up the place for business they went to use my telephone to call the city clerk. I say, "What for." Well, say we work and collect half our pay and we want to be sure she is in office this morning. We want other half our pay. I said, "Well, you don't have to worry. She will be down there." Well, we not quite sure about white people. You work all your life. Sweat, save and save till you are 85 years old. Then you lie down and die and someone else spends your money. We spend as we go. We don't work for nothing. We get sick, the government take care of us. If we get poor, the Welfare take care of us. Got nothing to worry about."

(What did you tell him about doing business on credit?)

Well, there's some business do credit business. They know most of 'em
