

It's all built out of native dimension stuff. That big house that's out there.

(They've made a lot of furniture. In fact, all their furniture was made--)

Oh, yeah. Sure.

(What wood did they use?)

They used mostly hickory if they could get it in making furniture, especially in making chairs. They used hickory mostly.

(I have seen some of the old chairs that had the woven seats, you know.

How did they make those? Like this one?)

Uh-huh.

(What was the wood material that they--?)

Well, that's what I say, most of that was made out of hickory--not the hickory nut, but the pig hickory. There's two different kinds of hickory, you know. There's one kind that will grow as straight as a string, just without any limbs on it for--oh, way up there. And it is the nicest timber to work with. I used to make hot handles and pick handles and grubbin' hoe handles out of it, you know. Go down in the woods, cut one down and bring it up and put it in old log barn. Take drawin' knife and whittle it down.

(I believe I can remember seeing some tools, planes, and carpenter tools made out of--)

Uh-huh. I've got a plane out on the farm 'bout that long. And blade and everything is in there.

(About two feet long?)

Yeah.

(What kind of wood is it made out of?)

It looks like might be post oak. From the looks of it, I don't know. It's old. No telling how old it is. I bought it at a second-hand store. I
