

CLINTON LOVES HIS FAMILY - WANTS THE BEST FOR THEM

(Why didn't you just give up and not go ahead and take some training?)

Mainly it was my kids.

(You were married and started a family and just decided you had to change your...)

The kind of life I had when I was a kid, I had to cook for my little brothers, and cut their hair, and just everything while my folks was gone. And we kinda had a pretty tough life. But then, when I got my kids started growing up, well, I tried to give them what I could, and I tried to show them what little training skill I've got, what it could do for me, what a college education they could have twice as good things as they got now. Now, they don't have very much, but they pretty well satisfied.

(Your motivation was try to do better for yourself so you could do better for your family?)

It's sorta set an example. I used to drink quite a bit and I had this oldest boy, who was 11th grade, he was a senior. So I'd come home and he'd come home. And I'd tell him don't drink and I'd be sitting there with a big hang over. So I just, something one morning I woke up and I started preaching to him and I thought to myself, I'm preaching something that I should do, doing myself, telling him to do something, not to drink, when I'm coming in all gassed up. So I just made up my mind right there to quit, to try to show him that I could do it. So I've never touched anything since.

DOESN'T APPROVE OF GOVERNMENT SCHOOLS

But that's what, I don't approve of my kids going to government school, even after they get out of high school. Because...

(You do approve it?)

No, I don't approve of it. Because I went to a government school all my
