

Yes , city jail.

(Were the Mayhues--Indians?)

Well, I don't know anything about them. It's been too long. Bit I think they maybe a hundrdd or two years ago. They used to live over there somewhere's east of that place.

(Well, I know I've seen in books, you know, about the Fort Maynue. I don't know whether it was ever a fort or not?)

No, it wudn't no fort. Just a courthouse and jail. And it was a postoffice, you know. It's just setting there. Not bein' used. Grown up weeds and grass.

(Did any of your sisters ever got to Wheelock of any of the Indian schools?)

I believe the one over here at town. I think went down somewhere; I believe went to Wheelock. Yeah, didn't go there long though. And them others, I don't know where they went. I've forgotten. k

(She told me none of yours ever went to an Indian school.)

Well, that-~~that~~'s the only one. Just one sister went down there. She didn't stay there long though. She didn't like it. I guess she came back home. Maybe like I did when I went to Goodland. Walked out on 'em.

(There were lots of kids ran away from Chilocco when I was there.)

Well, maybe 'livin' conditions was better then it was that t me, you know (unin)

But Goodland. It's a modern school then there. Different. Lots more bui'din's been put in there. Not like it used to be when I was there.

(Have you seen that place since you ran away from it?)

Never have been back. Huh-hu. Course it's different now.
