

Uh-huh. Well, that's just like the Western Indian, you know, they have own presidents, you know. Our own tribe, Choctaws is the same way. Jimmy's our chief. He works on this side.

(Im-hum. Can you remember when they didn't elect them?)

Jimmy?

(No, not Jimmy but--Jimmy was an elected chief and I guess lots of 'em before him were elected. )

Oh yes, uh huh.

(You get to vote for 'em. But was so far back was there a time when you they didn't vote for 'em that you know of?)

No, that's too far back for me. I don't remember, yeah.

POP: YOU know Silas LBacon?

The one I know of he died. I know Sol Bacon. So, he lives in town. But Silas Bacon he died here. Well, there was two or 'em. Silas Bacon lived down there close to Goodland. It was old man. And this other one was a kinda young one.

(Do you remember Silas Bacon?)

POP: Yeah, (unin)

(Yeah, you were talkin about it the other day. Theye-Pop and Mr. Battiest were both at Goodland when Silas Bacon was down there as superintendent.)

Yeah, Silas Bacon he organized school there you know. Long time ago. Long them days. I think I was a boy. It's a long time, you know.

(Pop, How old were you when you were down there?)

POP: (unin)

(Well, where did you go first? Spencer?)
